THE VERNAL EQUINOX AND STUDENT VANDALISM HAVE LONG BEEN TWIN PHENOMENA IN UNIVERSITY COMMUNITIES. Mass Art has not been immune from the eruptions of frustration and the stirrings of the psyche which afflict (or bless) the young.

Certain manifestations of springtime exuberance, however, are just plain senseless and even viciously destructive.

The juvenile mind which reached up to tear down the electric alarm wiring on the front door is a good example. It was not installed to harass but to protect the college community from being entered on weekends and at night by persons who might be bent upon personal mischief, property destruction or theft -- conditions quite familiar to us: The alarm provides fire egress to everyone and warns the guard of improper entry. Its destruction simply deprived us of this protection and involved needless expense to repair at a time when our funds are strained as all of us know.

Vice President, Administration
